Message of Condolence and Solidarity

On behalf of Khulna Agricultural University (KAU), I express my profound grief and heartfelt condolences over the tragic loss of lives, injuries, and widespread destruction caused by the sudden and devastating flash floods in Nepal.

Our thoughts and prayers are with the bereaved families who have lost their loved ones, as well as those who are injured, displaced, or waiting anxiously for news of missing family members. The entire KAU community stands in unwavering solidarity with the people and the Government of Nepal during this immensely difficult time. We deeply admire the remarkable strength of the Nepali people and pray for the safety and success of all ongoing rescue and relief operations.

To our beloved Nepali students studying at Khulna Agricultural University: please know that you are an integral part of our academic family. We understand the deep anxiety and distress you may be feeling regarding the safety of your families and hometowns. The university administration, faculty, and your fellow peers stand fully prepared to offer any emotional, academic, or logistical support you may need right now. Do not hesitate to reach out to us; you are not alone.

May the affected communities find courage, hope, and resilience as they heal from this natural calamity. We pray for a swift recovery and peace across Nepal.
